

Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by transmon - 27 Sep 2014 10:36

Recently I updated Lightworks to 12.0 but now whenever I try importing any of my videos (I have a gaming channel) it makes my voice sound really deep. I use Nvidia Shadowforce to record videos. I want my voice to sound normal but I can't seem to figure it out, could anyone help me? This did not happen before the 12.0 update

=====

Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by ecence - 22 Feb 2015 11:48

I have the exact same problem to. I think the framerates make the sound go strange, because when you apply another framerate you get a totally different result.

=====

Re: Lightworks makes messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by AlexanderGander - 27 Feb 2015 14:19

I have only been using the free version for a few weeks and I am now getting this same problem, does anyone know how to solve this or if this problem will continue say if I bought the pro version? I am thinking of upgrading to the pro version anyway as of its advantages.

=====

Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by hughrc - 05 Apr 2015 12:10

Hello I record with nvidia shadow play 60 fps files, i had the same problem until i change the fps on lightworks to 30 fps insted of 60 fps wich fixed it. Hope it helps you.

=====

Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by BombSquad2336 - 05 Aug 2015 00:20

Not sure how old this is, but I wanted to chime in. I found this thread because I was having the same issue. I didn't quite finish all the posts, but I didn't find a solution either. Interestingly...on a whim, I created a new Lightworks project and set the FPS to 30 (I had it on auto before). It seems to have worked. My audio is correct now. That being said...two quick notes. First, I would like to know from someone at the Lightworks company if this problem persists in the payware version. Second...if the problem re-appears I will post in here to let you know that my solution was not good enough.

=====

Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by donkpow - 05 Aug 2015 00:56

BombSquad2336 wrote:

Not sure how old this is, but I wanted to chime in. I found this thread because I was having the same issue. I didn't quite finish all the posts, but I didn't find a solution either. Interestingly...on a whim, I created a new Lightworks project and set the FPS to 30 (I had it on auto before). It seems to have worked. My audio is correct now. That being said...two quick notes. First, I would like to know from someone at the Lightworks company if this problem persists in the payware version. Second...if the problem re-appears I will post in here to let you know that my solution was not good enough. What you see as a problem with the program may not be a problem with the program. The program is designed with certain restrictions on the quality of material imported. For instance, if your audio is recorded at extremely low sample and bit rates, it probably won't play back correctly. Simply changing program parameters is like driving a car blindfolded.

=====

Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by jwrl - 05 Aug 2015 06:34

I'm not from "the Lightworks company" but I can tell you that there is no difference in the behaviour of the free and paid for versions. What the free version doesn't have is:

1. User-definable project locations
2. Advanced project sharing
3. Stereoscopic output
4. Third-party I/O support
5. Lightworks console support
6. Export options other than H.264/MP4

What it does have is all the import formats that the pro version supports. You will find a full list of those here.

By the way, for future reference "the Lightworks company" is actually called Editshare.

=====
Re: Lightworks messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by red_dagger - 31 Aug 2015 13:59

Well, this topic seems very diverse in sources. For some, a simple change of fps fixed it. For me, I changed "Copy to Local" to "Create link" and that seemed to fix it.

=====

Re: Lightworks makes messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by SolitaryDynasty - 08 Oct 2015 04:06

Yes the 30 fps works great

=====

Re: Lightworks makes messes up the sound of my voice

Posted by jwrl - 01 Oct 2018 17:40

New user bobadebtt posted about an audio problem here. Since their issue is unlikely to respond to fixes for version 12.6 i have split that post and moved it to Lightworks messes up my sound . This thread is now locked.

=====